For a lot of Roanoke households, the biggest obstacle to hiring help is not money. It is time. Two adults working full-time, kids in school and activities every evening leaves nobody free to sit at home while a cleaner works. The Happy Housekeepers solves that problem. Because its employees are bonded and insured by the company, customers do not need to be present while their house is cleaned, a policy that has made house cleaning in Roanoke easier for families since 1979.

Picture the routine. You leave for your shift at the hospital or your desk downtown in the morning, the crew arrives during the day and works through the house, and you come home to a clean kitchen, fresh bathrooms and vacuumed carpets. There is no need to take a half day off, rearrange childcare or wait around for a window.

That arrangement only works when there is real trust deep house cleaning and real protection. The Happy Housekeepers is licensed, bonded and insured, and it displays a BBB blue seal. The company also has decades of reviews from Roanoke Valley customers who mention honesty, reliability and punctuality, along with long-running relationships with the same team members.

Entry arrangements and any special instructions can be worked out with the office ahead of time. Maybe the dog stays in the laundry room, the home office is off limits or the guest room only needs a light dusting. Associates are available by phone or email, so you can set things up without playing phone tag.

The standard visit covers dusting or polishing furniture, vacuuming carpets, mopping hard floors, a complete kitchen clean-up, a total bathroom clean-up and dusting of window sills, baseboards, blinds and ceiling fans. Waste baskets are emptied and cobwebs removed. Specialized services, such as oven and refrigerator interiors or basement cleaning, can be added to any visit.

After your first cleaning, someone from the office calls to make sure you are satisfied. If anything needs adjusting, it can be noted for the next visit. Plans can be one-time, weekly, bi-weekly or monthly, and estimates are always free with no obligation.

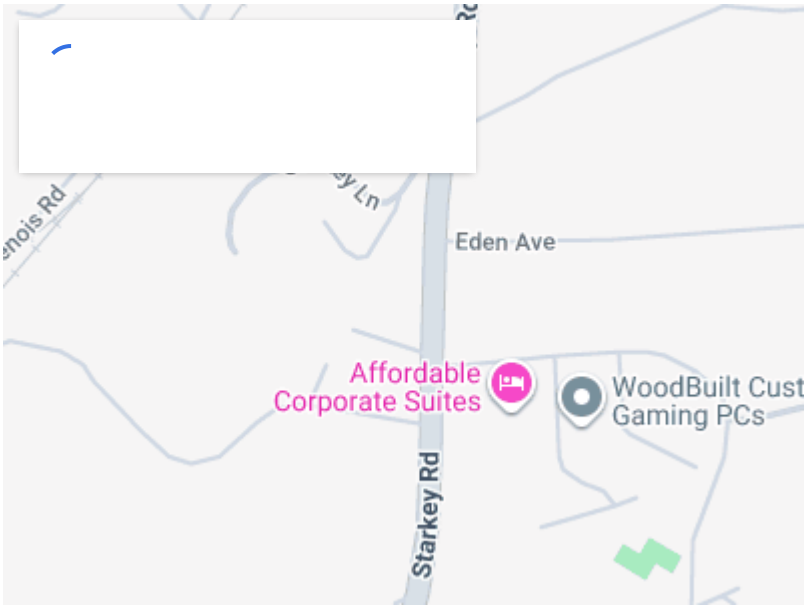

This approach is popular in Cave Spring, Salem, Vinton and Hollins, where many households have demanding schedules and long commutes along I-81 and I-581.
