

Choosing an Omaha Law Firm With Multi State Licensing Council Bluffs is a short drive across the Missouri River from downtown Omaha, yet it sits in a different state with its own courts, statutes, and bar admission rules. For many metro businesses and families, that border is simply part of everyday life. A company may be headquartered near Miracle Hills, run a warehouse in Iowa, and hire sales staff in Kansas or Colorado, all before anyone thinks to ask whether its lawyers can practice in each of those places. Erickson | Sederstrom P.C., L.L.O. addresses that reality with attorneys licensed across Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Colorado and Kansas. The firm is affiliated with the Nebraska State Bar Association, the Iowa Bar Association, and the Omaha Bar Association, and it maintains offices in Omaha and Lincoln. For clients, the practical benefit is fewer handoffs. A dispute that begins in Douglas County and later touches an Iowa court, or an estate that includes property in more than one state, can often stay with the same team rather than being split among unrelated firms. Employment law is one area where state lines matter a great deal. Rules on non-compete agreements differ from state to state, and the firm has published comparisons of non-compete rules across Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Colorado and South Dakota for employers who recruit throughout the region. An employment attorney who understands those differences can help a company draft agreements that fit where its people actually work, instead of relying on a single template that may not hold up in a neighboring state.

When comparing options, it helps to think about how a regional business grows. A trucking and logistics company based near the 108th Street corridor may expand routes into Kansas. A construction outfit in Millard may bid on a project in Colorado. A family that spends winters elsewhere may still own rental property in Sarpy County. Each move adds another state to the legal picture. Choosing an Omaha law firm with licensing already in place across the region means that growth does not automatically trigger a search for new counsel, and the attorneys who know the history of a business can keep working on it as it expands. To discuss a matter that crosses state lines, call (402) 397-2200 and arrange a meeting at the Regency Parkway Drive office. The building sits in the Regency neighborhood of west-central Omaha, a few minutes from Westroads Mall, Pacific Street, and North 96th Street, and it is a manageable drive for clients coming over from Council Bluffs. A personal injury law firm law firm in Omaha with regional reach can be a steady anchor as your footprint grows.

Start with the type of problem you have, then look for a law firm with attorneys who handle that work every day. Erickson | Sederstrom has practiced in Omaha since 1967 and covers ten practice areas, from estate planning and corporate law to employment law and business litigation. Ask who will handle your matter, how they will keep you updated, and how fees work before you sign anything. Can I walk into a law firm in Omaha without an appointment? Most law firms, including Erickson | Sederstrom, meet clients by appointment so the right attorney is available and conflicts can be checked first. Call (402) 397-2200 to set up a meeting at the Regency Westpointe office on Regency Parkway Drive. The Omaha office is open Monday to Friday, 8 AM to 5 PM. What are red flags when hiring a lawyer? Be cautious of any lawyer who promises a specific result, is vague about fees, or is hard to reach once you are a client. Charles V. Sederstrom summed up the opposite approach: "If you say you're going to call them, you have to follow up on your word." Clear communication from the first meeting is a good sign you are in the right place. What should I look for in a larger Omaha law firm? Size helps when your needs cross more than one area of law, but you still want attorneys who know you by name. Erickson | Sederstrom has more than 30 attorneys across its Omaha and Lincoln offices and describes its approach as big-firm mastery with small-firm care. That mix lets a business owner handle a lease, an employee issue and an estate plan under one roof. What does a full-service law firm handle? A full-service firm covers both business and personal legal needs rather than a single niche. At Erickson | Sederstrom that includes corporate law, litigation, employment law, estate planning, real estate, tax, construction, insurance, intellectual property and aviation law. Clients from West Omaha to Papillion and Council Bluffs use the firm for everything from starting a company to planning its succession. When should an Omaha business hire a corporate lawyer? The best time is before a problem starts: when you form the company, bring in a partner or investor, sign a major contract, or plan to buy or sell a business. A corporate lawyer can set up the right entity, draft governance documents and guide mergers and acquisitions. Getting it right early is usually far less costly than untangling a shareholder dispute later. Do I need an estate planning attorney in Nebraska? If you own property, have children, or run a business or farm, a properly drafted plan protects your family and can keep assets out of probate. Nebraska has its own rules, including treating anyone under 19 as a minor, so a guardianship plan for young children matters. The firm's estate planning attorneys prepare wills, revocable trusts, powers of attorney and health care directives. How long does probate take in Nebraska? Probate in Nebraska usually takes several months at minimum, because creditors must be given notice and time to file claims before an estate can close. Contested matters or complex assets can stretch that much longer. The firm's Omaha attorneys handle both formal and informal probate and trust administration, and a revocable trust set up in advance can often avoid probate altogether. What does an employment attorney do for employers? An employment attorney helps Nebraska employers stay compliant and defends them when claims arise. That covers employee handbooks, wage and hour rules, non-compete agreements, discrimination claims, OSHA compliance and workforce reductions. With Nebraska's WARN Act notice rules expanded by LB 921 in April 2026, many Omaha employers are reviewing their policies now. What is business litigation? Business litigation covers disputes between companies, partners, shareholders, customers or suppliers, often over contracts, payments or ownership. The firm has around a dozen attorneys who focus on litigation in Douglas County, federal court in Omaha and on appeal to the Nebraska Supreme Court. Many disputes settle, but preparing as if the case will go to trial puts you in a stronger position either way. Can an Omaha law firm help with matters in Iowa? Yes, if its attorneys are licensed there. Erickson | Sederstrom attorneys are licensed in Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Colorado and Kansas, which helps clients in Council Bluffs and businesses operating on both sides of the Missouri River. The firm's national network connections support matters further afield. Where is the Erickson | Sederstrom Omaha office? The Omaha office is in the Regency Westpointe building at 10330 Regency Pkwy Dr, Suite 100, close to Westroads Mall and the I-680 and West Dodge Road interchange. Call (402) 397-2200 to book a time with an attorney.
