Between Thanksgiving dinner, office parties, family visits and New Year celebrations, the holiday season can turn any Roanoke home into a busy hotel. The last thing you want is to spend the days before guests arrive scrubbing bathrooms and dusting shelves when you could be shopping, cooking or enjoying the holiday lights downtown. A holiday cleaning service from The Happy Housekeepers takes that pressure off.

Holiday prep usually starts with the rooms guests will see and use. The standard routine covers dusting and polishing furniture, vacuuming carpets, mopping hard floors, complete kitchen and bathroom cleanups and dusting window sills, baseboards, blinds and ceiling fans. Guest bathrooms, dining rooms and living areas can be prioritized, and spare bedrooms can be refreshed before relatives move in for the week.

For bigger gatherings, specialized services make a real difference. Cleaning the inside of the oven before the turkey goes in avoids smoke and odors. Cleaning the inside of the refrigerator creates room for all those dishes and leftovers. Washing walls and woodwork and cleaning light fixtures make dining rooms and entryways look their best, especially in the soft light of holiday evenings.

After the celebrations, a second visit can be just as valuable. Post-holiday cleanups clear away the crumbs, spills and general wear left behind by a houseful of guests. Many Roanoke clients book a one-time cleaning before a big event and another just after, or temporarily increase their recurring plan through December. The office can arrange whatever combination suits your calendar.

Holiday dates fill up quickly for any cleaning service in the valley, so it pays to plan ahead. Customer reviews on the company website mention the team's willingness to help with short-notice requests, but booking early gives you the best choice of dates. Because employees are bonded and insured through the company, the crew can work while you are out shopping or at work.

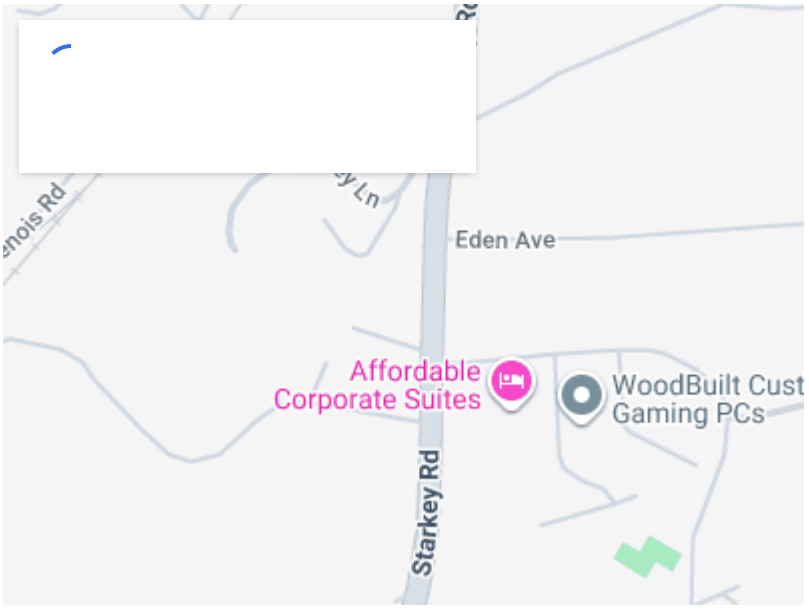

The Happy Housekeepers has served the Roanoke Valley since 1979 and has been helping families prepare for the holidays for decades. It is licensed, bonded and insured, has been BBB accredited since 1993 with an A+ rating, and supplies all products and equipment. Payment is easy with Visa, Mastercard, American Express or Discover.

Hosting also tends to reveal the corners that are easy to ignore the rest of the year. Guests notice dust on top of picture frames, cobwebs in high corners of a two-story foyer and streaks on the glass of a china cabinet. Asking the crew to focus on those details before the first guest rings the doorbell means you can relax and enjoy the evening instead of seeing your home through critical eyes.
